

Website

f Facebook

Twitter

Instagram

Asbestos fly tip: Appeal for information

Boston Borough Council, is seeking any information about a massive dump of asbestos at Old Leake.

Around 50 corrugated asbestos sheets have been dumped on a bridle way at Market Lane, Old Leake, spilling into a dyke.

It was reported to the council on Monday, October 17.

The clean-up costs will be £1700. The council has had to call in a specialist firm. Their operators will wear special protective suits and masks. It's the biggest asbestos tip the council has ever had to deal with. It's not just the cost of removal but the correct onward disposal which costs so much because of the extremely hazardous nature of the product. It looks as if this may have come from a commercial building. The council will be pleased to hear from anyone who knows where one has been taken down.

Cllr Michael Brookes, Boston Borough Council's Cabinet member for waste services, said: "This is an anti-social and reckless act carried out by irresponsible people who just don't care. All they care about is dumping their disposal costs which will fall on the council tax payer.

"We want to catch these people and make them pay. Any information will be appreciated; please let us know of any structure containing this type of asbestos which has been demolished recently."

Any information about the dump should be passed to the council's enforcement team on 01205 314200.

Don't loos' out on this business opportunity

The council wants to maintain public access to Leverton toilets, but someone taking on responsibility for the building would have opportunity to potentially use the rest of the space to open a cafe or run another suitable business.

Read more at <http://bit.ly/2eAhAHY>

Paul is the pumpkin king

Hallowe'en is just around the corner, but monster pumpkins have already made an appearance in Boston. Their mission was not to frighten but to fundraise.

Read more at <http://bit.ly/2dqyGy8>

Does your community have a bright idea?

A £1.85million fund has been launched to help communities turn great ideas into viable community businesses and provide a lasting benefit to local communities.

Read more at <http://bit.ly/2ea88g1>

Demand for shop units shows business is booming in Boston

Business in Boston is alive, kicking and booming. A new self-contained retail and business complex in the town centre has created 23 expanding and new businesses.

Read more at <http://bit.ly/2ek4nT5>

Boston Youth Council – Educate and Integrate

This is the third feature from Boston Youth Council. Members of the council, who are aged 11 to 18, produce news item about their activities.

Read more at <http://bit.ly/2eNvS6Y>

Algarkirk farm shop gets gold for top Lincolnshire food

Algarkirk's Pinchin's Farm Shop has been in the awards again for its quality food. Read more at <http://bit.ly/2ermfhi>